Dimensions are measured to the exterior boundaries of the exterior walls and the centerline of interior demising walls and to the way from the dimensions that would be determined by using the designated centerlines of the Unit. Unit plans in the Condominium documents generally only indicate the interior boundaries of the Units and do not include the exterior boundaries of the Units. Accordingly, the square footage of the Units as described in the Condominium documents may be greater than the square footage of the Units as described herein. Purchaser should not rely on the square footage of the Units as described herein in making a decision to purchase a Unit. Purchaser should rely only on the square footage of the Units as described in the Condominium documents. Purchaser should verify the square footage of the Unit by measuring the Unit after Purchaser receives the keys to the Unit from Seller.
